How garages are allocated

When this form is returned to the Council, you will be registered on the waiting list for garages in your areas of choice. Garages are allocated as they become vacant. Applications for garages are considered in date order, but current tenants of the Council will be given priority for any vacancies. Tenants with more than four weeks' rent outstanding at the time of a vacancy will not be considered for garages. The Council may contact you from time to time to review current applicants and check if you are still interested in being considered for a garage. If you do not respond to this review you will be removed from the waiting list.

You may be offered a garage more quickly by requesting areas in low demand, or where there are more garages. Housing Officers will contact you if they are able to offer you a garage, but are unlikely to be able to tell you how long you will have to wait before being offered a garage.
