Overview

The Council has screened the Inspector's Binding Recommendations and additional Matters Arising Changes (MACs) to determine whether the changes are significant and whether the changes would result in significant sustainability effects. The screening process identified those changes that needed to be reconsidered against the SA objectives in order to further determine the potential for significant effects. This document sets out the screening process for each of the Inspector's Binding Recommendations and additional MACs.

This document should be read in conjunction with the SA Report – Post Deposit Changes and Appendices (2012), HRA Report – Post Deposit Changes and Appendices (2012) and SA Screening and SA of Matters Arising Changes (2012), HRA Screening and HRA of Matters Arising Changes (2012) and the published Pembrokeshire County Council Local Development Plan: Adoption – 2021 (Adopted 28 February 2013).

It is concluded that none of the changes would result in significant sustainability effects.

					place are appropriate for their location and built and designed in such a way as to achieve positive economic, social and environmental impacts. Detailed policies such as General Policies GN.1 to GN.4 and GN.33 to GN.37 of the Plan will be critical in ensuring that this Strategic Policy is met. These policies focus on ensuring that proposals are appropriate in scale and nature for different locations, that the design achieves safe, attractive and inclusive environments which are sustainable and optimise energy use and efficiency and incorporate renewable energy technologies where feasible, whilst addressing landscaping and infrastructure requirements of any development.” New footnote 44 to read: “44 See sections 4.1 and 4.2 of Planning Policy Wales (Edition 5)”

					6.37b: “6.37c Mixed-use proposals on non-allocated sites will be considered against the relevant General policies contained within the Plan for the combination of uses proposed. The Council is supportive of mixed-use proposals, live-work units and home working where the location proposed is appropriate for that combination of use. Applicants will be required to demonstrate compliance with all relevant policies, for example, mixed-use proposals containing an element of residential use will only be considered suitable in locations where residential use would be considered appropriate. The Council recognises that small-scale employment premises can often co-exist within or adjacent to residential development and that such co-location may in many instances bring sustainability benefits, provided that issues such	with the SA report, assessment of Policy would remain unchanged, no further SA required.
